You may obtain the financial statements you need from one of the following Internet sources:

1. EDGAR (Electronic Data Gathering, Analysis, and Retrieval), the electronic archives of financial statements filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC). SEC documents can be retrieved using the EDGAROnline service at: http://finance.yahoo.com

   To obtain the balance sheet, income statement and industry information, type in the company name in the appropriate space. Select the most appropriate company form the list. The balance sheet, income statement and industry links will be listed on the left.

2. The company’s website - Most major corporations maintain web pages on the Internet. The website provides a variety of information on the corporation and often includes the corporation’s financial statements.

   Once you are on the company’s website, try locating the financial statements by using the search function (type in annual report). Also, try clinking on investor information.

   Hint: You may have to format your printer to print landscape in order to print comparative financial statements (i.e., financial statements reporting more than one year).
